Investment Manager Market Review

Quarter 1, 2018

Over the quarter, credit spreads widened and equities declined as optimism over synchronised global growth, strong company earnings and optimism about US tax cuts was overshadowed by jitters about geopolitics, protectionism and the approaching end of 'easy money'. Core yields rose amid fears that key central banks – having made further moves towards policy normalisation – could accelerate their moves in this direction. Most equity regions were down in local terms, but emerging markets recorded modest gains, aided by a weaker dollar. The Fund's relative outperformance versus its benchmark over the quarter was driven by stock selection, with a number of the regional equity funds outperforming. The biggest relative contributors were the UK, Europe ex UK and Japanese equity allocations. However, the Fund was still down over the period.

Within equities, we added to holdings in the UK and Japan. Several stocks here are more attractively valued than their international peers, and Japanese stocks should also benefit from strong corporate earnings. We also topped up holdings in the US, but retained our underweight; these are still quite richly valued, relative to those in other developed markets. We reduced holdings in global, Asian and emerging market equities. In fixed income, we added exposure to short-dated emerging markets, and switched some UK investment grade into global corporate bonds on a currency hedged basis.
